FARMERS MAY GET ORDERS IN REDCLIFF

Review Makes Arrangements to Have Relief Orders Issued Here--E. L. Stone of Redcliff Appointed to Issue Same to Farmers--Should Patronize Local Merchants.

In order to make it more convenient for farmers in this district who may want to take advantage of the relief offered by the Dominion government, an agent has been appointed in Redcliff.

This relief is in the shape of a loan which the government will make to any farmer who has had a crop failure and is in need of provisions for himself and family, or feed for his stock. In order to get these provisions or feed the farmers must have an order from the government agent in return for which the merchant will fill the order and the government will pay the bill.

In the past it has been necessary for farmers from this district to go to the Hat for these orders, but now they can be secured in Redcliff from Ed. L. Stone at he Review office.

If there are any farmers in this district who may need this assistance, they should not forget the local merchant.

The Review has gone to considerable trouble in arranging for this convenience, and we trust our farmers will take advantage of it.

ALBERTA TO SEND ONE BATTALION

In accordance with Sir Robert Borden's statement the following details in the apportioned quota of infantry by divisions and districts and provinces have been furnished by the acting minister of militia, Hon. J. D. Hazen:

Divisional area:

First, Southern Ontario, 1 battalion.

Second, Western Ontario, 2 battalions.

Third, Eastern Ontario, 1 battalion.

Fourth, Southern Quebec, 2 battalions.

Fifth, Northern Quebec, 1 battalion.

Sixth, Maritime Provinces, 2 battalions.

The Quebec quotas include the French-Canadian already authorized.

No. 10, Manitoba and Saskatchewan 2 battalions.

No. 11 British Columbus, 2 battalions.

No. 13, Alberta, 1 battalion.

Total battalions 14--16,000 men.

Canada Gets Order For Military Saddles

Contracts for the supply of fifty thousand military saddles for Canada, Great Britain, France and Russia, have been placed with Canadian saddlery firms from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

These contracts will cover an order for 15,000 saddles from France, an order for 10,000 from England, an order for 20,000 from Russia, and the requirements of Canadian use aggregating from five to six thousand.

Not a single saddlery firm in the Dominion has been overlooked in the letting of the contracts for this formidable order.

While the value of the contract to Canadian saddlery concerns is not definitely given, it is computed that in saddles alone, the contracts will aggregate over two million dollars.

WAR OFFICE IS BUYING IN CANADA

F. W. Stobart, a representative of the British war office, has opened an office in Ottawa for the purpose of placing contracts for army supplies with Canadian firms. Manufacturers' representatives from all parts of Canada are swarming to Ottawa to secure orders from the British war office purchasing agent and also in connection with the fitting out of the Canadian expeditionary forces. A million suits of underclothing and sweaters are required along with harness, saddlery and subsidiary equipment.

ORGANIZE GIRL GUIDES IN REDCLIFF

During the past week an organization of what is known as "Girl Guides" was formed in town. This organization is to the girls what Boy Scouts is to the boys, and promises to be a real live one in Redcliff.

A number of ladies are interested and are giving every assistance in forwarding the work.

Miss Chatterton, as guide mistress, is doing excellent work, and deserves praise for the progress she has already made. Later the girls will give concerts for the purpose of raising money to buy uniforms, equipment, etc. The date of these concerts will be announced from time to time, and it is hoped they will be well patronized and the girls given every encouragement.

Redcliff Boy Has Four Brothers At War

In a letter from his father in Scotland, James Merry learned that four of his brothers are now at the front helping to fight the battles of the empire. Three brothers were at home when they enlisted and the oldest of the family who has been in Australia, went with the volunteers from there. Mr. Merry's father looks upon the present situation as a very serious one and says that practically every young man in Scotland is either at the front or in camp training.

NEIGHBORING PAPER SEES LAND AHEAD

The Carlstadt News sums up the present outlook as follows:

"With most of the farmers working long hours getting every possible acre into shape for spring crop, with the C.N.R. grade supplying ready cash for a great many, and with the government tiding the settlers over and assisting them to get a big acreage into crop, at $1.00 wheat at $1 and going higher, a new optimism has taken hold and is spreading to the fatherest limits of the district. Even the worst dyed-in-the-wool pessimist is forced to admit that prospects are very bright."

WAR NOTES

In a dispatch from Rotterdam the correspondent of the Evening News declares that the German marines are leaving Antwerp to join the German fleet and the German ships at Kiel are being extensively provisioned.

Under instructions from Emperor Nicholas, orders were issued from the war office calling out the students of universities and high schools, who ordinarily are exempt from military service.

Custom Officer Killed By Bandit

Clifford Adams, aged 22, Canadian customs officer, and one bandit whose name is unknown, were killed at four-thirty o'clock this morning near the international boundary line at Blaine, Washington, in a fight between officers and five robbers, who last Saturday night stole twenty thousand dollars from the First National bank at Sedro Woolley, Washington.

AN OBJECT LESSON FOR WAR TIMES

A Montreal steamship ticket agent is under arrest on a charge of treason, his offense being that he gave comfort to the King's enemies by selling tickets to a number of Austrian reservists and advised them as to the best way to avoid detection in their attempted escape from Canada to the firing line.

The case is one of considerable interest for the reason that it makes clear the fact that it is an offence to even sell a ticket to either an Austrian or a German during progress of the war, if the ticket contemplates a trip beyond the boundaries of Canada.

This is something few people have realized and serves to make more clear just what a "state of war" really is. The fact that persons guilty under such a charge are subject to the death penalty, unless executive clemency intervenes, will still further impress upon the public mind the seriousness of the crime, which, under ordinary and normal conditions, would not be a crime at all.

SECOND EVENING BY UNION BIBLE CLASS

Those who attended the entertainment given by the Union Bible Class two weeks ago, will be glad to learn that they are to give another next Monday evening in the Empress Theatre. There will be a good musical programme, but the feature of the evening will be an address by Mayor Bott. His subject will be "The Conquest of Life." Since the air is now filled with the martial spirit his worship will no doubt draw some fine lessons for the present crisis which may be applied to our individual lives. A collection will be taken up to defray expenses.

No Cause for Alarm In South Africa

Lord Gladstone, ex-governor-general of the Union of South Africa, discussing the situation in Africa said:

"There is no significance in the treachery and desertion of Col. Maritz. I do not believe his action is connected with the resignation of General Beyers from the command of the Union defense force. Maritz acted on his own responsibility.

"Since the formation of the Union each year has shown increasing solidarity between the English and Dutch. Efficiency in the development of agriculture, mining and trade in every direction are definite results of the union.

"In America the bitter memories of the civil war have passed into oblivion. So it has been in South Africa, but in a far shorter time, and nothing which has occurred in South Africa leads me to modify this statement.

GERMANS IN ENGLAND BEING ARRESTED

All Austrians and German subjects of military age now in England are to be interned in detention camps. So far hundreds have been arrested. This action of the government is necessitated, it is said, because of the facilities offered German spies to enter the country with Belgian refugees on the pretense of being Belgians. No distinctions are being made. Wealthy bankers and merchants are receiving the same treatment as are small shop keepers and waiters.

TWO CHANGES IN DOMINION CABINET

Hon. T. Chase Casgrain and Hon. P. E. Blondin were sworn in as members of the Borden government. Mr. Casgrain was sworn in as Postmaster General to succeed Hon. L. F. Pelletier, and Mr. Blondin as minister of inland revenue.

ALBERTA WILL DO HER DUTY IN WAR

Amid applause and accompanied by the singing of the national anthem, the provincial legislature, on motion of Premier Sifton, seconded by E. Michener, leader of the opposition, passed a resolution expressing the wholehearted approval of the action of Great Britain in the war, commending the gift of Alberta to the empire and pledging support to subsequent contributions from the resources of the province as may be necessary.

WAR SITUATION MORE FAVORABLE TO ALLIES

British Sink Four German Destroyers---Allies Make Progress in Northern France and Belgium---British Navy Shelling Enemy in Vicinity of Ostend.

Each day during the past week the war outlook has been more favorable for the allied forces.

The good news started last Saturday with the official announcement that he British squadron, led by the cruiser Dauntless had engaged and sunk four German destroyers off the Dutch coast.

The sinking of these four warships makes six torpedo boat destroyers sent to the bottom by British gun fire since the beginning of the war, and seven counting the torpedo boat destroyer sunk by the submarine E9.

The Russians also claim to have sunk two German submarines, but this is not confirmed.

On land the allies have also been meeting with success. Their progress in Northern France and Belgium is indicated by the statement issued by the British official press bureau that in the northern area the German have been driven back more than 30 miles. This is in part confirmed by an Amsterdam despatch which says that the Germans have evacuated Courtral, which is a very considerable distance to the northeast of Lille.

London reports two important successes in the battle before Dunkirk and Calais, for the possession of which the Germans are striving.

Both French and British pay tribute to the valor of the Belgians who with the allies, are holding back the German advance along the North sea coast. Incessant fighting has been in progress from the coast line as far south as Labassee, a distance of about 50 miles, but this line is divided into several fronts, on which separate engagements are being fought. It is this line that the Germans are endeavoring to break in their attempt to reach Dunkirk and other French seaports.

Three British monitors, the Severn, Humber and Mersey, with six inch and other heavy guns, are shelling the Germans in the vicinity of Ostend where, it is said, terrible execution has been done and machine gun detachments have been landed from these vessels and are assisting in the defence of Nieuport.

Crown Prince Frederick William's army has made a new defeat near St. Mihiel, according to semi-official advices received today. The Germans beat a hasty retreat, abandoning many of their big guns.

A London report says: "Victory is with the allies. Seventy thousand men have been taken prisoners between Chalons and Longwy. Three guns and 31 flags have been captured."

Optimistic reports from the Russian viewpoint, came from Petrograd, where it is officially announced that the Germans have been driven from the roads leading to Warsaw and are in full retreat, having left their wounded on the field.

Similarly the Russians report that the advances of the Austrians in Galicia have been delayed.

Sasebo, the naval port of Japan, reports that Japanese have destroyed the military equipment and seized large quantities of gold and ammunitions of war on the German islands recently occupied in the South seas.

A despatch from France says: "I am able to state on information from a most accurate source that the general situation since the war began never has been more favorable than it is today. In official quarters there is a feeling of unshakeable optimism.

"With the bulk of his forces drawn away from the Aisne, General Von Kluck has been making desperate attempts to break through the allies' line, leaving a portion of his troops to occupy the channel ports, to marche on again to Paris.

"His attacks having failed he is now in a position of the greatest danger. Part of his lines of communication through Belgium have been cut and before him apparently are two alternatives, either surrender or a retreat to prepared positions in Belgium. He may avoid the former, but it is unlikely he can escape the latter."

HARVEST FESTIVAL A GREAT SUCCESS

The Harvest Festival services were well attended last Sunday; the service at 11 a.m. was choral. The hall was filled with children at their special service in the afternoon, and in the evening many persons were unable to find seats. The hall was beautifully decorated by several ladies of the church. Offerings of grain, vegetables, bread, flowers, etc., were most liberal, and enabled the decorations to be carried out on a big scale. The decoration of the altar was especially nice. Our thanks are due to all those who kindly gave thank offerings of this kind and to those who lent their plants.

On Monday evening a most enjoyable social evening was spent in the hall, in the course of which some of the plants, fruit and flowers which had been given were put up to auction and sold by our old friend, Mr. Cathey, the proceeds going to the church.

A German steamship, with a prize crew in charge of her from a British cruiser was brought to Esquimalt harbor yesterday. She was captured in the Gulf of California and is supposed to have been carrying fuel for the enemy.

200 TEAMS NOW WORKING ON C.N.R. GRADE

Making Good Progress on Grade Through Redcliff---Four Camps Now Established---Are Working North West.

During the past week a large gang has been added to the force now engaged on the grading of the C.N.R. branch through here.

At present there are about two hundred teams and 300 men, and great progress is being made with the work. There are now four camps, the first of which is about five miles west of town. The grading at present being done north west from town and the first camp will be moved further along the line in a few days.

The whole encampment is now in operation, and it is the intention to continue the work just as long as the weather will permit. It will be started again early in the spring and completed through from Hanna to Medicine Hat, and will be ready to handle next year's crop from the new district which it will open up.

REDCLIFF MEMBER BUSY IN THE HOUSE

Mr. Pingle, member for Redcliff, has proven a busy and a useful member of the house. He was largely instrumental and took an active part in inducing the government to introduce amendments to the school assessment, and rural municipalities, whereby the minimum tax on subdivisions was reduced to fifty cents a lot. As the old law stood considerable hardship was experienced in connection with the high minimum tax on subdivisions, and the amendments will bring great relief and at the same time will not interfere unduly with the revenue of the districts affected.

COSTS MONEY TO SECURE PETITION

"It cost the Alberta Temperance and Moral Reform League $30,000 to secure the necessary number of signatures to their petition for a provincial-wide plebescite on the temperance question, and the enormous cost of this undertaking justifies us in our contention that the direct legislative act of Alberta is cumbersome and unworkable," said Secretary Woodbridge of the United Farmers of Alberta.

NO REDUCTION IN LEGISLATORS' SALARIES

The members of the provincial legislature, as far as we are informed, made no effort to reduce their annual salaries of $1,500, the balance to be given to some patriotic fund. The men in the trenches, on the engine, at he plought, or the forge, or in the offices have been accepting the reduction in salaries and joyfully receive the cut for the welfare of the nation.

The ordinary session of the legislature lasts for five or six weeks. The present session will not exceed two weeks. Yet as far as the public is aware the honorarium of our legislators has not been reduced at all.

The reduction of, the other fellow's salary is a very popular way of exhibiting patriotism. The members of the provincial legislature ventured no further than that.—Calgary Albertan.

ALBERTA ELECTORS TO VOTE ON PROHIBITION

In the legislature the petitions for prohibition throughout the province were laid before the house. These petitions asked that a vote be taken with a view to finding out whether or not the people desired a prohibitory act passed, the proposed act being attached to the petition according to the direct legislation act.

The house by an unanimous vote, decided that a vote on the subject should be taken and the date for the poll was set for the first week in June.

Private Wm. Hartley, of Montreal, with the first Canadian contingent, died in London on the way to camp. He leaves a wife and five children.

REVIEW DOES GOOD WORK.

The action of the Dominion government in coming to the rescue of the farmers of this district who had a crop failure is a most commendable one and is being praised on all sides.

At present they are giving orders for the necessities of life to farmers so desiring them. These orders are presented to the merchants who in turn deliver the goods and send in the bill to the government.

When this relief started it was necessary for farmers from this immediate district to go into Medicine Hat to get their orders from the government representative there. Besides being inconvenient for the farmers this system was most unfair to our local merchants, as the majority of the farmers got their orders made out on Medicine Hat merchants to save themselves further inconvenience. As these farmers had always dealt here and as our merchants had been carrying many of them over from time to time, the Review got busy at once to see if some more satisfactory arrangement could be made.

We are pleased to be able to announce this week that our efforts were rewarded. A representative of the Review brought this matter to the attention of the government officials and succeeded in convincing them of the reasonableness of our arguments. They were only too glad to do anything possible to make matters more convenient and fair for both the farmers and the merchants.

As a result E. L. Stone, of this office, has been appointed to issue orders to farmers in this district who may need assistance.

THE CART BEFORE THE HORSE

The Department of Trade and Commerce has undertaken an extensive advetrising scheme in western papers in an endeavor to encourage the people of the west to purchase Canadian grown apples.

We are informed by friends who have just returned from Ontario that car loads of apples are actually rotting on the ground because there is no market for them. This has been the case in Ontario and other eastern provinces for years, and it is no doubt with the hope of inducing people in the western appleless provinces to purchase this surplus stock and save this waste that the department is undertaking this advertising stunt at the present time.

From our point of view it looks very much as if the department were putting the cart before the horse. Before they start advertising Canadian apples in the west they should make it possible for us to get them here without paying prohibitive freight rates. At the present time it just costs $2.95 freight to get a barrel of apples here from Ontario. With this freight rate, which is about twice as much as the apples can be bought for, there is not much use trying to sell Ontario apples in the west, and the chances are that they will still continue to rot on the ground where they fell. Since we can hardly expect our members of parliament, who are either stockholders in or ex-solicitors of our railway companies, to do much in the way of trying to get freight rates lowered, we think that if the money spent on advertising were applied to paying freight on a few hundred car loads of apples it would do more toward relieving the situation and bringing about the desired effect. If this were done we might all have a barrel of applies in our cellar this winter. Otherwise it does not look as if all this advertising is going to do much good.

TAKE EVERY PRECAUTION

At the present time boards of health in surrounding towns and cities are issuing warnings to parents because of the fact that just now there are a number of cases of diphtheria, scarlet fever and chicken pox among school children. Parents are urged to watch closely and not to regard lightly a complaint of sore throat, and not to attempt to conceal any sign of a rash. They are advised to call a physician at once, not only for the health and happiness of their own child, but as a safeguard for others.

Too often parents are a little touchy on these points, and if any contagious diseases visit their home want to keep it quiet. They feel a little huffed if the health officer quarantines them as a safeguard. Others again, who have a large family all going to school feel it an injustice to keep all their children out of school because one of the family has some contagious disease. They conceal the fact and in many instances a serious epidemic has sprung up from this one case. This is not right. It is jeopardising the health of every child in school. If parents have any suspicion that a child has, or is taking any contagious disease so prevalent among children they should take every precaution to retard its spreading. It is a serious matter.

The writer knows of a case where a parent sent two of her children to school when she knew the third one was at home suffering from dread and contagious disease. An epidemic broke out in the room which those two children attended, and as a result three other children died. To this day the parents of those three children blame the carelessness and neglect of that woman for the death of their children.

This little incident will bring home to our readers more forcibly than anything we might say, the importance of great care and precaution in these matters.

GIVE US THE NEWS

On several occasions in the past we have reminded our readers that we would greatly appreciate it if they would hand us in items of news of local interest for publication.

It has always been the aim of the management of this paper to make the Review the brightest, newsiest and best weekly paper in the province. That we have succeeded fairly well all will admit, but now that things are very quiet in all branches we are in greater need than ever of any assistance we can get from our friends in the shape of getting the local news. Our reporting staff is necessarily limited and as a result we cannot be expected to have representatives at all meetings and social gatherings. Only today we were asked why we had no report of a certain gathering last week. It seems strange but it is nevertheless the case, that officials in all organizations fall over each other in getting to the newspaper office to tell us about some meeting, concert, social evening or dance they are going to have, and get it advertised free of charge. We have no objection to giving this advertising, in fact we are only too pleased to help any organization along as much as possible, but in return for this we feel it is only reasonable for us to expect that we be given a report of these affairs after they do come off when it is impossible for a representative of the paper to attend them. All we want is the particulars, we will do the rest.

We are always glad to get any items of news. If you have a visitor let us know about it. It may not be news to you, but it will be for someone else.

These may seem small matters, but if our readers will remember them they will help very much in keeping up the interest in the local paper.

LET THE BELGIANS COME

The other day while talking over the proposal to bring a number of Belgians out to this country to settle on the vacant lands of Alberta and Saskatchewan we were asked if we thought this a wise move in view of the fact that at the present time there are so many unemployed in our own country. Our first impression was that this was a pertinent and timely question, but after a little thought and reflection we are of the opinion that these are just the kind of people we want in Western Canada at the present time. As for our own unemployed we, like all other countries, have always had them with us and no doubt always will, Belgians or no Belgians. Our thousands of acres of virgin prairie have been inviting those unemployed for years and our governments have been offering them the same inducements as they will offer the Belgians, yet they have not accepted. The reason is obvious: their tastes and tendencies do not run along agricultural lines. With the Belgians it is quite different. They are an agricultural people and there is probably no country in the world which has made greater progress along this line than they have. At different times our governments have sent representatives over to Belgium to study their systems and methods. They have a population of over six hundred to the square mile, and have learned how to make every foot of land count. The Belgian delegation which visited America recently passed through Canada. On their way they viewed the country from the car windows, and this is what one of their number has to say of what they saw:

"We saw hundreds of miles of fertile lands lying fallow. We saw orchards and fields with ungathered products rotting on the ground. Farms were divided with wooden fences that contain enough lumber to build the homes of an empire. The waste is not confined to materials. Never can a European believe the magnitude of wasted labor unless he visits the cities. Hundreds of thousands of men, whose energy might be applied to production, remain in enforced idleness. If any country in Europe had such boundless natural wealth, such limitless land area fit for cultivation, and such unused labor energy, it would be quickly transformed into prosperity beyond dreams. Why, in Belgium, even our dogs work. Every city lot is cultivated, and most of our garden truck is raised on less ground than Americans waste in unused back yards."

The Dominion can easily accommodate all the Belgians that are likely to express a desire to come. Those of them who have followed agriculture in their own country constitute the very class which this country most needs; for they have mastered the problem of the intensive cultivation of the soil. The impression is gaining ground among our own people that to persons who have lived amid conditions in which intensive cultivation has been reduced almost to a science, rather than to the native born, must we look for the successful demonstration of this form of agriculture. As a Belgian farmer can make a living from a very few acres of land he is just the man to demonstrate in this portion of the Dominion what intensive cultivation of the soil really means.

With the British government commandeering the output of all woolen mills in the home land, thus cutting off from Canada its supply of imported woolens, there should be splendid opportunity for Canadian woolen mills to get busy. In fact it should be possible for the Canadian mills to successfully bid for a portion of the British war department business.

THE LITERATURE OF THE FARM

In the current issue "Hoard's Dairyman" draws attention to the great strides that have been taken in recent years towards raising the educational status of the farmer. The writer says; "One of the most notable of the many advances which the genius of the world has made in these modern times is the extent and quality of agricultural literature. Upon no one subject has there been such a concentration of human intellect and research as is here shown in the last quarter of a century. It is astonishing that the old farm, overlooked and despised somewhat by the rage for professional distinction, should thus evoke the services of the best intellects of the day and age.

The growth of agricultural journalism, the wonderful conquests of agricultural chemistry and physical science, the advance of our agricultural colleges and minor schools, and lastly the taking up of agriculture studies in the public schools of the land—all these have shown a wonderful impulse on the part of all the people towards a better understanding of what the farm means to the welfare of the masses. All this has called for an expression of thought and study in the form of a great literature which is producing a wonderful influence upon the minds of all the people and of the farm population in particular."

WILD-LAND TAX

The new wild-land tax which the government will put into force was introduced in the legislature. It provides for a tax of ten mills annually on the actual value of farming and grazing lands cultivated by their owners. A revenue of $550,000 is estimated from the tax next year.

MODERN JERUSALEM

Very Different From the Ancient City in Its Oriental Sitting

Probably no modern city is more disappointing to the expectant traveller than is Jerusalem. We think of it in its ancient glory. We picture to our imagination the magnificent temple with its golden roof and the other great buildings of the hill of Zion. We read of its being the rendezvous in passover times of a million pilgrims, and we naturally think of it as an enormous city, comparable to London or New York of the present day. We think of it in its oriental setting of 3,000 years ago, but as we approach it a modern railway train and climb the steep ascent which leads to the city behind an American engine of our kind disappears.

At last the guard calls out "Jerusalem," and we disembark a mile from the city, get into a rickety modern hack, which has evidently done duty in some more civilized community and are bounced over the rough roads and the intolerable cobblestones within the gates, until at last we are landed at our modern hotel, no different from the khan of ancient times.

And here our disillusion has only begun. The city of which we read as accommodating 1,000,000 guests on the feast day could hardly today entertain 1,000 strangers within its walls, and since a multitude of pilgrims come every year from Russia and Italy and France and Germany, these nations have erected great hotels outside the walls for the accommodation of pilgrims.

But these, fine and even magnificent as they are, take us not back to the Jerusalem of 2,000 years ago, but tell us only of the modern city, where half a dozen great nations are building these hotels and hospitals in order to gain political and commercial advantage and patiently awaiting the time when they can oust from its possessions the Turk, who has so long been sway within the sacred city.—Christian Herald.

The Solidarity of the Empire

The most astounding fact in this striking manifestation of imperial solidarity is its spontaneity and its unanimity. And this spontaneity, which has demolished in a moment the theories opposed to the principle of imperial unity has been the crystallization of the bond which unites the varied parts of the empire. All the citizens of the empire today realize that there exists between them a solidarity of interest which all have a right to defend in equal measure.—La Patrie.

The Tourist (spending a week-end in the village, to the oldest inhabitant)—Well, I don't know what you do here. It's certainly the most deadand-alive place I ever saw.

The Oldest Inhabitant—Ah, you ought to wait till next week, sir, and see how the place 'ull be stirred up then.

The Tourist—Why, what's on next week?

The Oldest Inhabitant—Ploughin'.—Sketch.

The Grenadier Guards, in which the Prince of Wales now holds a commission, as the premier regiment of the Foot Guards, though it is not, of course, the senior, has a honor enjoyed by the Coldstreams. The Grenadiers, however, have been in existence for just over two centuries and a half, having been formed as a bodyguard for Charles II. The regiment has the King as its colonel-in-chief, while the Duke of Connaught is its colonel.

ROBBING THE COAL PILE

Smoke That Goes up the Chimney Is Fuel Thrown Away

For the benefit of any one who may not see the analogy between a robbed coal pile and a smoking chimney it may be briefly and simply explained.

The visible part in smoke is nearly all carbon, either as soot or charcoal, and carbon is the principal combustible part of coal—i.e., the useful part, the part capable of yielding heat. Carbon completely burned forms an invisible gas, carbon dioxide; therefore, whenever the gases from a stack show black they contain carbon, which indicates that complete combustion has not taken place in the boiler furnace.

In other words, all of the available heat in the coal has not been realized. It is the same as though the corresponding part of the coal fed into the furnace has been thrown away, for, although it has passed through the furnace, it has been thrown away up the stack beyond recovery. In this, then, so very different from robbing the coal pile?

The owner who through ignorance allows conditions to exist which are not favorable to the most economical operation of his boiler furnaces, although he is unwittingly robbing himself, is nevertheless stealing from his own coal pile.—Power.

"Oh, thank you!" exclaimed an elderly woman to a laborer, who had rendered his seat in a London bus. "Thank you very much."

"That's all right, mum," was the rejoinder.

As the woman sat down the chivalrous laborer said:

So familiar is everyone with it that it is prized as a household medicine everywhere.

The Bench and the Bar

Sir Edward Carson, the eminent lawyer, and leader of the Ulster covenanters, is usually very serious in his speeches, but he is a master in the art of making witty and telling retorts.

During one case in which he appeared, he had more than one passage of arms with the judge, who finally drew attention to a discrepancy between the evidence by two of Sir Edward's principal witnesses, one of whom was a carpenter and the other a publican.

"That's so, my lord," instantly retorted Sir Edward. "Yet another case of difference between the bench and the bar!"

FOOD FACTS
What an M.D. Learned

A prominent Georgia physician went through a food experience which he makes public.

"My own experience and that first led me to advocate Grape-Nuts food and I also know how much it has ascribed it to convalescents and other weak patients, that the food is a wonderful rebuilder for brain power and brain tissue, as well as muscle It improves the digestion and sick headache pain very rapidly, and I did in strength and weight.

"I was in such a low state that I had to give up my work entirely, and went to the mountains of this state, but two months there did not improve me; in fact, I was not quite as well as when I left home.

"My food did not sustain me and it became plain that I must change. Then I began to use Grape-Nuts regularly and in two weeks I could walk a mile without fatigue; and in five weeks returned to my home and practice, taking up hard work again Since that time I have felt as well and strong as I ever did in my life.

"As a physician who seeks to help all sufferers, I consider it a duty to make these facts public." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont.

Trial 10 days of Grape-Nuts, when regular food does not seem to sustain the body, works wonders. "There's a Reason."

The Size of the Waves

The most experienced sons of the sea are apt to have very exaggerated ideas of the size of towering waves which break over the vessels during sea storms, and frequently waves are reported as having reached an almost impossible height. As a matter of fact it is extraordinary for a wave to attain a height of twenty feet, while the average size of great waves is considerably less. The mountainous seas often encountered by liners in the North Atlantic usually measure about forty feet, though the navy-yard-bowling, quick-falling water attains a greater altitude. The big waves of the North Pacific rarely measure more than thirty feet, while the highest wave ever met by an Australian-bound liner in the South Pacific reached fifty feet. The big waves of mid-ocean are much larger than those encountered elsewhere, and it is very rare that a height of even twenty feet is reached by a wave in the Mediterranean.

A Suggestive Guess

Bishop Ingram, Lord Bishop of London, England, has a pleasant habit of chatting with anybody he may meet during his walks. One day in the country he came across a lad who was loafing after some pigs by the roadside, and the bishop paused to ask him what he was doing, that being his customary way of conversation:

"Moindin' swoine," the lad, replied, stolidly.

The bishop nodded his head thoughtfully.

"Ah, is that so?" he commented. "And how much do you earn a week?"

"Two shillings," was the reply.

"Only two shillings!" remarked the bishop. Then he continued, pleasantly, "I, too, am a shepherd, but I get more than two shillings."

The lad looked at him suspiciously for a minute, then he said, slowly:

"Maybe you gets more swoine nor me to moind."

Survivor of Siege of Lucknow

The death has just taken place at Edinburgh of Mrs. Elizabeth Anderson, who was one of the few remaining lady survivors of the siege of Lucknow. At the time of this stirring event in history, Mrs. Anderson's husband, Dr. Thomas Anderson, who was a son of Mr. Thomas Anderson, for many years secretary of the National Bank, was a medical officer in India, and was stationed at Delhi. Mrs. Anderson was on a visit to Lucknow when the mutiny broke out, and she remained in the beleaguered city for nine months, and was present in the call that she was present in the talkhana, or cellar, to which Europeans went during the heat, immediately underneath the room to which Sir Henry Lawrence was taken when the fatal shell entered his room.

A New Cure For Warts

Dr. Felix Szontagh of Budapest recommends a new and simple method of treating warts. It consists in covering the wart and the surrounding skin, to the width of one centimeter, of transparent caoutchouc plaster and leaving it so covered for weeks—even, if necessary, for two or three months. Whenever the plaster becomes loose it must be removed and replaced by a new piece. Also the longer it is to be changed once in three or four days.

Any adherent resident of the caoutchouc is to be removed with ether or gasoline, care being taken that the wart or the surrounding skin shall not be rubbed energetically, because irritation of the skin is not conducive to the disappearance of the wart. Doctor Szontagh says that he cannot explain in what manner this treatment acts and how it produces such excellent results from the cosmetic point of view, but it is certainly efficient. Perhaps the caoutchouc contains some substance which relieves the wart and causes atrophy.—Lancet.

The scarf was presented by his seamen themselves, and retained ever since.

Estimates Place Home Requirements at Sixty-Five Millions

The Monetary Times has obtained the following estimates of the wheat crop in Canada and of the requirements of the country. The figures have been obtained from one of the best posted millers in the Dominion. Wheat crop of western provinces, 185,000,000 bushels; of Ontario and other parts of Canada, 20,000,000. Total Canadian wheat crop, 155,000,000 bushels. Average consumption by population of, say, eight millions at five bushels per year, 40,000,000; required for seed, 20,000,000; required for feeding, 5,000,000. Total home requirements, 65,000,000 bushels. Exportable surplus, 90,000,000 bushels.

No Increase in the Price of Cowan's Perfection Cocoa

To reassure our customers and the Trade generally in the face of so many advances and rumored advances in the cost of food products, Tea, Coffee, etc., we have decided to announce definitely that there will be no advance in price of COWAN'S PERFECTION COCOA in 5-lb., 1-lb., ½-lb., ¼-lb., and 10c. t. s, between now and Christmas. Further than this we cannot look ahead.

We believe it to be the duty of all Canadian Manufacturers to do their utmost during the present crisis to show their belief in the underlying soundness of Canada's commercial conditions. This announcement is made in face of the fact that the Cowan Company have had to pay an advanced price for some of their raw materials; but it is believed that increased demand from Atlantic to Pacific, because of failing foreign imports and embargos on teas and coffees, will offset other conditions and enable our largely increased factory to run full time with full or increased staff at full wages.

The Cowan Company, as manufacturers of an article of unusual food value, are sincerely anxious to do their share in allaying anxiety as to employment, wages and food supplies.

Do You Realize the Food Value of COCOA and CHOCOLATE?

Cocoa and Chocolate are foods as staple as flour. Cocoa is not a luxury, but a staple necessity of life, and, considered from the standpoint of its value as nourishment is concentrated form pure Cocoa at 50c. a pound is a most economical food.

The food value of Cocoa and Chocolate has been recognized for many years in Great Britain and Europe. The highest medical authorities have made the statement that Cocoa and Chocolate are the most sustaining of all foods in concentrated form. European soldiers almost universally carry Chocolate in their kits as an emergency ration in case of food shortage, or fatigue in forced marches, and viewed from this standpoint the late Queen Victoria's gift to her soldiers in South Africa, takes on a new significance.

We all appreciate Tea and Coffee, but, after all is said, these beverages are in very great part, slightly stimulating drinks, with little or no food value. Cocoa and Chocolate, on the contrary is a splendid food as well as drink, and a delightful drink as well as food.

Cowan's Perfection Cocoa is sold by all Grocers in 5lb, 1lb, ½lb, ¼lb, and in 10c. tins.

What Germany Has Sacrificed

By act of war Germany cut herself off from trade with Great Britain that in 1911 amounted to $487,000,000; from trade with the Russian empire that in that year rose to $215,000,000, and from the French trade, which was then $246,000,000. German exports and imports rose from $3,529,000,000 in 1908 to $4,715,000,000 in 1912. The British navy alone, by the French fleet in the Mediterranean and the small Russian fleet in the Baltic, has blockaded the vast bulk of this trade entering and departing in ships carrying nearly 100,000 cargoes from German ports, the chief of which are Hamburg, Bremen, Stettin, Altoona, Lubeck, Danzig and Warnemunde. Of the great mercantile navy which the fleets of the Triple Entente are holding in check, more than three-quarters belongs to the German nation.—New York Times.

Water Power

Few would expect to find any connection between a modern hydro-electric plant and a prayer. The connection is, indeed remote, but not undiscoverable. The first application of water power to mechanical purposes was made by Buddhist priests who they employed the energy of running streams to the work of turning prayer wheels. That, then, may be said to constitute the origin of the application of water power to perform man's labors, the foreshadowing of the great industrial development now in progress for the harnessing of the world's waterfalls, rivers and streams.

NATIONAL CAMPAIGN FOR OUR OWN GOODS

Galt Editor Urges Country-wide Organization to Promote Sale of "Made-in-Canada" Products

The Galt "Reporter," a few days ago, had the following timely and interesting editorial under the heading "Buy Canadian-made Goods" on the economic situation in Canada arising out of the war:

"While one of the immediate effects of the European war was the disorganization of trade in Canada, a secondary result should be of a stimulating character. Owing to the fact that the continent of Europe is the centre of hostilities, a considerable amount of manufactured goods formerly imported from Germany, France, Austria, Belgium and other countries will now have to be produced here. Reports show that every year millions of dollars worth of manufactured goods from these countries are sold in Canada. Our own mechanics and artisans can produce such articles as well as the foreign workers and if the manufacturers take advantage of the opportunity provided, the war should result in more work, instead of less, for their employes.

"But the whole responsibility of making the best of the present situation does not lie with the manufacturers. If the people will demand Canadian made goods they will be not only supplying their personal needs but creating work for their fellow-citizens. When the Empire is involved in such a tremendous crisis as the present there is something for all to do. We cannot all go to the front but those who stay at home can do a great deal towards creating conditions that will make the suffering here as light as possible.

"The patriotic citizen, when he goes to the store to fill his wants will demand in every case possible goods "Made in Canada." There should be a well-defined campaign carried on throughout the country urging Canadians to purchase goods of home manufacture. If an accelerated demand for Canadian goods is created during the war, it will doubtless be maintained after normal conditions return in Europe.

"In this way we stand to benefit permanently by insisting that what we buy must be Canadian-made."

ORILLIA AND "MADE-IN-CANADA"

Orillia Paper Advocates Keeping Money Circulating Near Home

The Orillia "Packet," one of the brightest of Ontario's weeklies, recently had the following editorial on the "Made-in-Canada" idea:

"The Orillia Furniture Company is promoting the buy-at-home idea by making use of a pay envelope which calls attention to the fact that 'last year Canadians bought $618,000,000 worth of foreign goods, half of which could have been made in Canada'—or in other words $1,000,000 a day which went out of the country might have been spent at home to keep Canadian factories busy. Why should not the same principle be extended a step further to "Made-in-Orillia" articles? Our merchants and people generally grumble more or less loudly if the factories are not running full blast. But do the grumblers do what is in their power to keep our home factories busy? Take the matter of furniture for instance. We have in Orillia a factory whose goods are commanding a ready sale in all parts of the country—to such an extent that it has worked more steadily during the last eighteen months than any other furniture factory in Ontario. Yet the Furniture Company might have spent much more money in wages if all the furniture of the class sold in Orillia had been of their manufacture. How often have those who clamor for industries, or talk about making Orillia grow, unguited for, or given a preference to Orillia furniture. Similarly, why should those who want a motor car of the class manufactured by the Fisher Motor Company go out of town to buy it, when they can obtain the best value for their money by purchasing the "Made-in-Orillia" article, and factory service at their door—to say nothing of doing their share to make the motor works permanent and prosperous. On the same principle the farmer from any of the surrounding townships who buys Tudhope carriages, or Tudhope-Anderson wagons, implements or stoves is helping to build up the home market for his own produce, and to add to the value of his own farm. The buy-at-home principle should not be confined to dry goods and groceries."

The remarks of the Orillia "Packet" would bear repetition in almost every town and city in Canada.

502 OIL COMPANIES NOW IN ALBERTA

The extent to which speculative interests in the province embraced the oil company promotion idea is reflected by a return from the provincial secretary's department showing that 502 companies with an aggregate capitalization of $383,095,000 have already been formed as limited liability concerns. Of this number 44 were incorporated in 1912 and the balance of 468 came into being during the 1914 boom. The secretary reported that no legislation had been prepared to prevent the over-capitalization of these companies.

FIGHTING A TRUST IN BINDER TWINE

Statement of the Grain Growers' Guide With a Logical Deduction Therefrom

In the Grain Growers' Guide appears an interesting article on binder twine. Dissatisfied with the high price of twine the Grain Growers' Association for a year past has been investigating the cause, and as a result has come to the conclusion that the American binder twine manufacturers have created a corner in the raw materials, and established a monopoly. This, says The Guide, is a serious situation for the Western farmer, who has to have the twine at any cost, as there is nothing to take its place.

"The Secretary of the Grain Growers' Association," so we are told, "has had the problem under consideration for a long time, and last fall he took the matter up with some British capitalists and manufacturers with the object in view of starting a British binder twine industry in competition with the American trust. It was then that the investigation of the real conditions started, but the project had to be dropped, because it was demonstrated to the satisfaction of the investigators that the United States binder twine trust had such an absolute monopoly on the necessary raw material that effective competition was out of the question."

The Guide adds: "There is reason to hope, however, that the Western farmer soon will be independent of the American binder twine trust. The investigation by the Grain Growers' Association and the British manufacturers resulted in an attempt now being made to introduce machinery using flax straw instead of the present material. If this experiment is successful it will mean the establishment of a new industry in the Western Canadian Provinces, a big saving for the farmer, and, besides, let him out of the twine trust's clutches." So far so good! But while struggling to free the farmer from one American combine, the Guide advocates a fiscal policy which would enable two or three score United States trusts to drive competing Canadian industries out of business and then advance the prices of many necessaries of life at their own will all over the Dominion.

CATTLE AND HOGS NEEDED FOR MARKET

Scarcity and High Price of Meats Point to Profitable Opening For Our Farmers

In the high price of meats and the scarcity of cattle, sheep and hogs the Canadian farmer has a strong incentive to go in for livestock where he has not done so before, and to go in on a larger scale where he already has made a beginning. The population is growing far faster than the meat supply both in Canada and the United States and the new American tariff will, it now appears, admit Canadian cattle to the States free of duty. It would look as though the Canadian farmer has a profitable source of pretty high profits right at hand.

That extensive sections of the West appreciate the situation is indicated by the statement that one man has brought 5,000 young steers from Mexico. It is said that Alberta alone will have 500,000 hogs ready for market this year and that the Lethbridge district will yield 1,000,000 pounds of wool. There is plenty of room for progress along this line.

Six or seven years ago Canada and the United States were both considerable suppliers of cattle and meat to European countries, particularly Britain. In 1905 Canada exported to Britain 148,718 live animals, and the United States 414,900. In 1912 Canada exported to Britain 6,800 cattle, and the United States 32,987. The North American countries have dropped out of the cattle and meat exporting business on account of their increasing home population and an ever diminishing quantity of stock.

Packing Plants

Writing from Moose Jaw to his paper, Mr. Norman Lambert, Western representative of the Toronto Globe, says:

"Already plans are being made by public and private interests for the accommodation of the increased volume of mixed farming products which will be marketed in this Province in future. The Gordon-Ironsides-Fares Co. have arranged to build a large packing plant at Moose Jaw, and Hon. Mr. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture for Saskatchewan, is now talking of the establishment of a packing plant and abattoir on a co-operative basis, similar to that of the elevator and creamery companies in Saskatchewan.

GOVERNMENT TO EXTEND OIL LEASES

The Federal government has decided to extend all oil and gas leases for one year. The leases in the ordinary course are renewable every twelve months but under prevailing conditions it has been thought desirable to give the holders of leases an extension of twelve months. A few months ago when the oil excitement was in full swing many people invested in oil leases. A good deal of exploration work has been carried on but the results so far have not been such as to prove the existance of any large body of oil. The work is being prosecuted with vigor, but in the meantime the holders of leases have felt the effects of the depression and in some cases to call upon them for additional fees would be to cause considerable embarrassment. In fact no doubt many holders would be forced to allow their lease to lapse. In such an event a serious loss might be occasion to those who could ill afford to stand it. The government action is both considerate and sensible.

RECRUITING FOR SECOND CONTINGENT

Orders were sent out from the military department to the officers commanding the recruiting operations to proceed with the recruiting of 15,000 volunteers, the immediate organizing of which was announced by Sir Robert Borden in his statement outlining Canada's permanent plan of assistance to the Mother Country. Pending definite word from Lord Kitchener as to the nature of the forces required, it can safely be assured that a practically unlimited number of infantry can be made use of by the war office. Recruiting, therefore, starts at once.

Thrilling Experience Of A Boy Of Ten

We have been handed the following by Mr. P. H. Wedderburn. He clipped it from a South African Journal and says: "The heroism and thoughtfulness of this lad of ten years appealed to me so much so that I thought the boys of this town should know of it as an example which they could follow should it ever fall to their lot to act in any untoward incident."

This is the epic of a boy of ten whose supreme courage and extraordinary resourcefulness in a grown man entitle his name to go down to posterity as that of a real hero in real life, says a contemporary.

His name is Vincent Atkinson, the son of a miner living in a lonely district of Western Australia, and the tale of what he did was told by Mr. D. C. Gawler, a member of the legislative council of that state at the recent Empire Day celebration at Midland Junction, in the Middle Swan district.

"In March last Vincent, who is only ten years of age, was living with his mother at Billili Station, some miles from Lennonville, on one of the 'out back' gold fields, the father being about twelve miles away prospecting for gold.

"The weather had been intensely hot for some time, when one day soon after the mid-day meal, little Isabel, aged five, ran to the other children crying, 'Oh, mum's lying asleep in the sun!' They went out to her, and Vincent, after feeling her pulse and heart told the rest, gravely, that 'Mother was dead,' and placed a hat over her face.

Considering what to do, the boy's first idea was to follow his father, but remembering that he was about 12 miles away, he decided that he would not be able to reach him before dark. His next thought was to leave the younger children, run into Five Mile, where his uncle lived, tell the sad news, and get assistance, but he was afraid to leave the little ones by themselves.

"He then decided to go to his uncle at Five Mile, taking the younger children with him. The first, however, fed the poultry, gave them water, turned off the windmill, gave each of the children a piece of bread and butter and a drink of water, taking a big drink himself to see him through the journey.

"Next he filled the water bag and got a bottle for the baby to drink from, put the baby in the go-cart, which he pushed, and, for fear a young puppy would perish if left behind, took it with him. Between 1.30 and 2 p. m. the pitiful little procession started out for the Empress mine, more than five miles away, barefooted and through sand, with the thermometer registering 110 degrees in the shade.

This little band consisted of:—Vincent, aged 10; Robert, 8; Isabel, aged 5; Arthur, aged 3; the baby, aged 7 months.

"The puppy was the first to give in and had to be carried; then Arthur, whose feet were badly blistered, had to be taken up. Vincent, with his young brother on his back, and pushing the go-cart through the sand, became greatly distressed, but pressed manfully on.

"With the extreme heat the baby required constant attention, and a sip of water every few hundred yards. Vincent's great anxiety was lest the water bag should give out before they reached the Five Mile, but he brought his little expedition safely through, and they arrived at about 6 p.m., when he reported his melancholy tidings and obtained assistance."

The story thus told by Mr. Gawler aroused great enthusiasm, and the audience, seeking out the hero, who was among the 1,500 children present, raised him shoulder high and cheered lustily.

PANAMA CANAL.

SAVES 30 DAYS

The arrival in Dublin from Tacoma, Washington State, of the steamship Daldroch, which is the first British vessel to pass through the Panama canal, and has made Dublin its first port of arrival, is causing a good deal of interest in shipping circles. The voyage was accomplished in 50 days, just 30 days shorter than by going around South America. The total dues paid for the passage through the canal locks was $4,000, but the incidental circumstances attendant on the saving of 30 days on the voyage more than compensated for the outlay.

For the first time since 1908, the dreaded foot and mouth disease has broken out again on this continent. The infected area is through the west corner of Michigan and Indiana, where about fifty herds are known to be involved.

United Farmers Into Live Stock Business

At a meeting of the United Farmers Association held last week it was decided that the association go into the live stock business. The idea of creating a live stock department has for its object the concentration of the hog business. There is an understanding between the government of Alberta that when the farmers can show that they are raising 50,000 head of hogs that are reasonably centralized the government will finance the building of a large packing plant. This packing plant is almost in sight. The live stock department will probably handle between 40,000 and 45,000 hogs this year, and next season, according to the talk of the directors is certain to go over the desired mark. Then the farmer, who is a member of the U. F. A., will be raising hams and bacon instead of pork and getting about twice as much for his effort.

Alberta Cattle Sell Well In Toronto

From the Toronto press there comes the information that on October 6th there were sold at the Union Stock yards of Toronto, by H. P. Kennedy & Co., commission salesmen, to the Toronto Fowler Canadian Company, a carload of Alberta cattle for $8.50 per cwt. In commenting upon the same the press state that they were a fine sample of the kind of cattle that Alberta is capable of producing, and were said to be as fine a load as have been seen on the market during the present year. While the price was not the highest for the season it was the top price paid on that day.

The same report states that the firm of H. P. Kennedy & Co. sold Alberta butcher cattle as high as 8¼c, and light stockers from Alberta at 6¼c. With feed as plentiful as it now is throughout the central portion of this province stocker cattle should not be going eastward.

Annual Report of Conservation Com.

That the conservation movement has made distinct progress during the past year is clearly indicated in the Fifth Annual Report of the commission of conservation, which has just been issued.

In his annual address the chairman of the commission, Hon. Clifford Sifton, covered the commission's activities with respect to waters and waterpowers, minerals, public health, agriculture, fisheries and fur-bearing animals and forests, indicating clearly and succinctly a number of the problems that had been grappled with and the advances that had been made in their solution.

The report contains a number of splendid illustrations and gives in concise form much information that is of value to all Canadians interested in the conservation of our natural resources.

CANADA WILL KEEP 30,000 MEN READY

From the present time until the end of the year, or as long as the war office shall deem it advisable, Canada will keep continuously in training and under arms 30,000 men.

As soon as arms, guns, etc., can be provided for a force of ten thousand men, that force will be dispatched to Great Britain as the first instalment of a secondary force.

Thereupon additional men will be enlisted so as to keep the number under training continuously at 30,000. This process will continue from time to time; that is to say as soon as each force of 10,000 is armed, equipped and dispatched another force of 10,000 will be enlisted to take its place and to bring the number in training up to 30,000.

It is anticipated the first force of 10,000 men will be dispatched in December and thereafter at regular intervals similar forces will be continuously sent as rapidly as they can be armed and equipped.

Including the forces on garrison and outpost duty we shall thus have under arms or in training, about 40,000 men in Canada and, until the end of the war or until the war office advises that further expeditionary forces are not needed, a steady stream of reinforcements will go forward from our shores to the seat of war.

THE DAY

(Henry Chappell, London Express).

You boasted the Day, and you toasted the Day,
And now the Day has come
Blasphemer, Braggart and coward all,
Little you reck of the numbing ball,
The blasting shell, or the "white arm's" fall,
As they speed poor humans home.

You spied for the Day, you lied for the Day,
And woke the Day's red spleen.
Monster, who asked God's aid Divine,
Then strewed His seas with the ghastly mine;
Not all the waters of the Rhine
Can wash thy foul hands clean.

You have dreamed for the Day, you schemed for the Day;
Watch how the Day will go,
Slayer of age and youth and prime
(Defenceless slain for never a crime)
Thou art steeped in blood as a hog in slime,
False friend and cowardly foe.

You have sown for the Day, you have grown for the Day;
Yours is the harvest red.
Can you hear the groans and the awful cries?
Can you see the heap of slain that lies,
And sightless turned to the fire-split skies
The glassy eyes of the dead?

You have wronged for the Day, you have longed for the Day
That lit the awful flame,
'Tis nothing to you that hill and plain
Yield sheaves of dead men amid the grain;
That widows mourn for their loved ones slain,
And mothers curse thy name.

But after the Day there's a price to pay
For the sleepers under the sod,
And He you have mocked for many a day—
Listen and hear what He has to say:
"Vengeance is mine, I will repay."
What can you say to God?

GUARANTEED RELIEF FROM ALL BOWEL ILLS

If your bowels are out of order, instead of using some harsh salt or other physic, take a Rexall Orderlie tonight, and tomorrow you will feel great. They taste good and act so easily that there isn't a particle of griping or purging, nor the excessive looseness that follows the taking of salts and most pills. They soothe and strengthen the bowels, promptly relieving the constipation, making it unlikely to occur again.

We don't believe there is any other bowel remedy anywhere near as good, and at the same time so easy and pleasant to take as Rexall Orderlies. We know you will agree with us and believe you will thank us for telling you about them. If they don't satisfy you in every way, come back and tell us and we will give back your money without a word or question. You have no reason to hesitate when we give you the opportunity, as we hereby do, to try them at our risk. In vest pocket tin boxes; 12c, 25c, 50c.

You can buy Rexall Orderlies only at The Rexall Stores, and in this town only of us.

The Rexall Store

There is a Rexall Store in nearly every town and city in the United States, Canada and Great Britain. There is a different Rexall Remedy for nearly every ordinary human ill—each especially designed for the particular ill for which it is recommended.
